

IRENE PORREY, Newark, and Arlene Schmitter of Santa Rosa, Calif., formerly of Utica, have one thing in common—music.

The two girls are juniors at Potsdam State Teachers' College where both are planning a career in music. They are roommates at Potsdam. When classes are resumed next month Miss Schmitter should have much to tell her roommate who thinks the world of Arlene.

An accomplished musician, Miss Schmitter recently won the right to appear with the Horace Heidt Show in Sonoma County, Calif. The 18-year-old Californian has been playing the accordion since she was 5 and at the age of nine she was voted the second accordion champion of the year on the Major Bowes Amateur Hour.

She is the holder of a four-year scholarship in piano at Potsdam. While at Potsdam she has played the viola in the college symphony, sang in the "Collegiate Singers," the college's touring 40-voice choir and had her own radio show over the campus station WNTC.
